MOTHER'S DAY

The noblest thoughts my soul can claim,
The holiest words my tongue can frame,
Unworthy are to praise the name
More sacred than all other.

An infant when her love first came—
A man, I find it just the same,
Reverently I breathe her name,
The blessed name of Mother.

MICH. LEGISLATIVE NEWS LETTER

Michigan Press Association, Lansing Bureau

Squabbles, rows and oratory are rampant in legislative circles as the session of the Fifty-fifth legislature draws to a close. Bad bills are being ditched and a few good ones go with them. Good bills are being rushed through and in the scurry some bad bills are swept along through the mill. Bad weather must be breeding bad blood, as arguments seem to grow more strenuous. Out of it all it is to be hoped there will be a preponderance of beneficial legislation, but a great lot of it is still unsettled.

There was less of amateur oratory and tearing of scenery than usual on the capital punishment bill, which was passed by the House Thursday afternoon. It run the gamut of general orders and was put on third reading and its immediate passage, after the referendum clause was removed. The vote in the House was 61 for the amended bill and 34 against it. Whether the Senate will accept the amendment doing away with the referendum is a problem, as is the subsequent action of the governor in case the Senate does concur. There is no possibility of its being passed over the veto of the governor, in case he fails to approve.

The legislative committee appointed to investigate the affairs of the utilities commission reported a verdict which corresponds with the trite "no cause for action" so frequently handed down in the courts. They gave the utilities commission a clean bill of health, barring a mild criticism of a lack of harmony. But the committee upheld the contention of Gov. Green that all members of the commission should reside in Lansing during their term of service.

The House celebrated May day by passing the Lennon cigarette tax bill, which levies one cent on each ten cigarettes, and the bill now goes to the governor for his approval. There was an immediate reaction by a few who tacked a referendum on the question, which might be brought about by the obtaining of 37,000 signatures, but these spasmodic efforts seldom get results. This tax will provide for the two million dollars appropriated by the Turner bill for the aid of the more highly-taxed school districts of the state, so the great majority of cigarette smokers are willing to contribute their little two cents on each package of "fags." The strenuous objection to the bill was made by jobbers, who don't like the idea of opening their cartons and stamping each package.

The Senate Wednesday approved the budget bill, which has been a source of worry ever since the opening week of the session. The bill is now in the executive office for approval. Amounts are higher than ever before, which is perfectly natural, inasmuch as the state is growing in.

Auto Safety Campaign

Michigan's statewide safety campaign is scheduled to get under way May 10. It will continue until June 30. The campaign should have the earnest support of every citizen interested in cutting down automobile fatalities in the state.

During the last few weeks the loss of life through automobile accidents has been appalling. With the driving season hardly under way the list of those killed and injured has reached alarming proportions. Every citizen has an individual responsibility. He should lend his influence and assistance in promoting the success of the campaign.

Official garages and inspectors will be named in every community. You will have them here. There will be no excuse for a delay. As quickly as possible you should have your automobile examined as to brakes, lights and mechanical equipment. It may prevent you from becoming involved in an accident. It is well worth while.

Mother's Day 1928-1929
Don't know why I'm out of tune
This sad night!
Don't know why the stars and moon
Give no light!
Don't know why my eyes have tears
And my heart, its foolish fears
Seems to feel the weight of years—
Sorrow's blight!

Yet I can remember now,
Mother's Day!
Last year, I remember how
I was gay!
How I wrote a note of love,
Prayed God's blessing from above
Called her my rich treasure-trove,
Happy day!

But tonight my skies are gray,
Bleeding heart!
And there dawns a Mother's Day,
And grief's smart!
O dear God! how can I stand
This love's loneliest demand
Till I clasp my mother's hand
Clouds depart!

—By J. W. Greenwood.
P. S. A little Mother's Day memento will be given to all those present at the Sunday services, May 12th, 1929.

THE PROPOSED LUMBERJACK MEMORIAL

Plans are being made for the construction of a memorial appropriate to the "Lumberjacks" of Michigan's piny days. A committee, of which T. W. Hanson is a member, proposes to meet Friday, May 17th to take up the matter of selecting a site and other matters pertaining to the project.

In a letter written by R. G. Schreck, federal forest supervisor of East Tawas, he outlines his ideas on the subject. It contains a lot of interest and we are sure our readers will enjoy reading it. The letter was addressed to T. F. Marston, secretary of the E. M. T. and reads as follows:

East Tawas, Michigan.
April 25, 1929.

Mr. T. F. Marston,
Bay City, Michigan.
Dear Mr. Marston:

In accordance with our conversation over long distance yesterday I have gotten together a few thoughts and figures that will probably be of some interest to you or anyone having an interest in the Huron National Forest and its location for the proposed Lumberjack memorial.

It so happened that in discussing this matter with Mr. Goulet, manager of the dams along the AuSable river owned by the Consumers Power Company, he informs me that 15,000 people registered at the Five Channels Dam during the summer of 1928. He stated further that this was only a small part of the number of visitors that visited this dam during the season. This is only one dam and there are four others within a short distance, all of which are within the boundaries of the Huron National Forest. The number of visitors that registered on the Huron Forest during 1927 were 43,000 and for 1928 the number reached 48,000. This in itself only represents a small part of the people visiting us each year. The reason that these numbers were not increased for the past two years was because there were approximately 70 miles of highway under construction. At the present time Oscoda Township has constructed a fine gravel highway from Oscoda west paralleling the AuSable river on the south side of our High Banks Camp Ground which is a public camp ground maintained by the Federal Government inside the forest. This year this road will be constructed two miles farther to Five Channels Dam. There is also on the program for this year a gravelled highway from Bryant south across Five Channels and the AuSable river and leading in a southwesterly direction across the forest to Hale. The Federal government during the past two years has dedicated and constructed what will always be known as the Thompson Trail. This is a road leading from East Tawas in a northwesterly direction to the AuSable river and is the highway that was travelled during the

CHARLES GOTHRO PASSES AWAY IN DETROIT

Charles Gothro, a former resident of Grayling and the brother of Herbert Gothro passed away at his home in Detroit last Thursday, the cause of death being heart trouble. Although Mr. Gothro had been ailing for about a year he died quite suddenly having taken ill at his work and passing away sometime later at his home.

Mr. and Mrs. Gothro came to Grayling during the fall of 1922 from Wilwin in the Upper Peninsula, the former coming to take the position of sawyer for the Salling Hanson Company, following the passing of Adolph Hermann. He remained with the company until they closed their business last summer, leaving for Detroit last Fall. During their residence here Mrs. Gothro was one of the successful teachers in our schools, and they had made many warm friendships and the death of Mr. Gothro will bring sorrow to many.

Funeral services were held in Detroit Friday and the remains taken to the deceased's old home in Oscoda for burial Saturday. Mr. Gothro was a member of the Boyne City Masonic lodge and of the Oddfellow lodge of Oscoda, the Masonic burial service being used at the funeral. He was 57 years old and was born in New Brunswick.

Besides his wife, he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Lee Thurston of Owosso and a son Francis of Detroit, five brothers and one sister, Edgar Gothro, Cleveland, Mrs. Jane McDougall and Thomas Gothro, Detroit; George of Marshfield, Oregon; Bert of East Jordan and Herbert of Grayling, all of whom were present at the funeral except the brother who resides in Oregon. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gothro and son Don went to Oscoda Friday to attend the funeral.

Superstitions in Wales

Wales probably has more active superstitions than any other Caucasian country. That two fish-hooks baited with cheese keeps cats away, and that possession of 5-shilling coin is fatal are two most current superstitions.

Dr. Jan Metzelaar of the State Department of conservation was a pleasant caller at the Avalanche office Monday. He had been visiting some of the sportsmen's clubs at the river to interest the members to assist in trout research work by preserving the stomachs of some of the fish they catch and send them to the Department for examination. These stomachs are placed in a 10 per cent solution of formaldehyde, bottled, and are to be sent to the department at the close of the season. Dr. Metzelaar says that the Brown trout eat more trout than either of the other species—brook and rainbow. In the examination of the contents of the stomach of a brown trout revealed that 44 per cent of the fish contained therein were brook trout. The rainbow eat less percentage of brook but larger percentage of vegetable matter. Intensive research along these lines are going on in the Department hoping to be able to more intelligently determine their future efforts in fish culture.

THE NEW LIQUOR LAW

Michigan's new liquor law, which received the signature of Governor Green last week and becomes operative in August of this year, is heralded as the most drastic liquor law of any state. Certainly it does not hold out much consolation to the purveyor of wet goods, and even the home brewer or occasional offender is likely to come under its provisions, although the act states that courts have the power to use discretionary methods in dealing with the driftwood caught in the net of prohibition enforcement.

While the new law does not provide a life penalty for a fourth offense conviction, which brought the state much unfavorable publicity, the individual caught and convicted four times will have served 37½ years in prison by the time he has completed his fourth prison term. That should be sufficient penalty to discourage the most hardened offender against the prohibition law, but just how it will work out in practice can only be determined through its application by the courts.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

Unless the unexpected happens and the Senate should decide to recall the capital punishment bill for further consideration, where it could be allowed to remain in committee until the end of the session, it looks as if the decision to allow Michigan to become a legalized killer will be strictly up to Governor Green.

The governor has not indicated, even to his closest friends and advisers, what action he is going to take should the bill finally reach his desk in its present form which provides the extreme penalty for first degree murder. Many had thought that a referendum clause would be attached to the bill, leaving it up to a vote of the people, but both branches of the legislature decided to assume the responsibility by placing the final decision before the executive branch of the state government.

There is a divided sentiment in Michigan regarding capital punishment. There always will be. Michigan was one of the first states to abolish the "life for a life" code in dealing with murderers. For over eighty years we kept this advanced position and have found that the crime of murder is no more common here than in other cities where capital punishment is in force.

The present legislature has strengthened the criminal code as a means of combating crime. It is one of the strongest pieces of legislation ever enacted by a legislative body. For the first time law enforcement officials have had placed in their hands effective means for dealing with the outlaws of society. If severity of punishment is a crime deterrent we should witness a decided falling off in crime statistics.

Under the present administration not a single murderer has been released from prison. Even those convicted of lesser offenses are finding out that the old time, easy exit from prison has been ended. Under these conditions we have less need for a capital punishment law than we ever had. Should the final decision rest with Governor Green we believe he will accept the challenge and refuse to let Michigan take this backward step towards barbarism. Such a course will take courage, he will be subjected to much criticism, but as a citizen having the best interests of Michigan at heart we know he will be equal to the test.

TAGGED TROUT BEING CAUGHT

Early reports from trout streams indicate that many fine catches are being made. A three and a half pound brook trout was reported from a stream near Kalamazoo—name of stream etc., not mentioned.

With the season only a few days old, the conservation department is already receiving returns on the experimental trout tagging operations of last year. Three tags have been sent in by fishermen, numbers 0780 and 0775 were received from Cadillac; and number 1899 from Belding. The department is counting on the cooperation of fishermen in general to send in these tags as taken, giving the length of the fish bearing the tag, and the place where the fish was taken. Tags should be sent to Dr. Jan Metzelaar, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

FUNERAL OF MRS. JOSEPH FRIZZELL HELD SATURDAY

The funeral of Mrs. Florence Frizzell, young wife of Joseph Frizzell of Detroit was held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of the deceased's sister, Mrs. Dan Owens. Rev. J. W. Greenwood of the Michelson Memorial church delivered a most impressive sermon, and rendered a pretty hymn "In The Garden," very nicely. The remains were laid to rest in Elmwood cemetery beside the deceased's mother, who passed away 16 years ago, six nephews, Ernest Larson, Frank, Leslie and Stanley Owens, Byron Randolph and Harold Jensen carrying the flower laden casket holding the remains to its last resting place.

Mrs. Frizzell, who was formerly Florence Larson passed away at the Owens home early Thursday morning from tuberculosis. Her home was in Detroit but she came to Grayling the forepart of March to see if she could gain her health back, having been ill for three years. But this dread disease had gotten too far along and she grew steadily worse until the end came.

She was born in Grayling April 2, 1896, and was one of a pair of twins born to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Larson. The other being Clarence Larson and the youngest members of that family. She received her education in Grayling schools and had been in Detroit for several years, but frequently came to Grayling to visit.

Surviving the deceased are her husband, her father and three brothers and three sisters, Mrs. Jennie Owens, Mrs. Signa Randolph, Carl B. and Axel Larson of Grayling; Clarence L. of Detroit and Mrs. Minnie Jensen, Milford.

Those from out of the city who came to be in attendance at the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence L. Larson and family, Miss Ruth Chamberlain, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Owens and family, Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Julius Jensen and family of Milford.

BACK TO THE FARM

There is no need of discouragement about the farm situation. The hunger in the cities is too great.

On the sidewalks of the larger cities millions of people are looking for work. Other millions do not have sufficient income to allow a proper standard of living.

It will not be long before these people will look either backward or forward to the farm. Farming will yield them what they have not had—a good living.

Then lands will sell and agriculture will present a different front to the world.

Grayling people are invited to attend a benefit entertainment to be given at Gaylord Friday evening, May 10th. The play is being given to raise money to pay a couple of bills that are owing to Grayling parties and which were incurred two years ago last fall. They came about through the injury of a member of the Gaylord High School football team during a game played with the local High school here. The lad's arm was broken and he was taken to Mercy Hospital and the management of that institution guaranteed payment for services rendered. However the patient's arm did not heal properly owing to other conditions which necessitated his having to remain at the hospital for some time, running up quite a bill. The boy was finally dismissed, well and strong again, but neither the Hospital nor the attending physician have been paid for their services and Gaylord people feel that they should pay the bills which amount to something around $250 and so are giving the play to raise the money. Part of it has been solicited by popular subscription from Gaylord business men but the greater part of it still remains to be raised. As the proceeds from the play will come to Grayling it would be doing a friendly act if a number of our people would drive up and take it in. The title of the play is "It pays to advertise" which sounds good to us. The performance will begin at 8:00 o'clock Eastern Standard Time.

The program was in charge of the Music Division, under the leadership of Mrs. Iva Jarmin. Sketches were read of the lives of the following American composers: Carrie Jacobs Bond, Charles Wakefield Cadman, Lily Strickland, Thurlow Lieurance, and John Prindle Scott, and some of their compositions were sung. Those taking part in the program besides Mrs. Jarmin, were Mrs. Roy Milnes, Mrs. Frank Tetu, Misses Clarissa Dago, Eva Dorr, Vella Hermann, Doris Quackenbush, Hella Cassidy, and Mrs. Giegling.

The retiring president, Mrs. Eva Joseph, was presented with a Federation pin, in appreciation of her efforts during the club year.

There's No Excuse for Failure!

THE mails must go. That is why the Universal Aviation Corporation, operating fleets of passenger and mail planes between Chicago, Kansas City, St. Louis, Omaha, Indianapolis, Cleveland and Louisville, choose Stanolind Aviation products to protect their great Wasp and Hornet engines against friction.

The determining factors resulting in this choice were: Quality of Oil and Specialized Lubricating Service.

You may not be interested in airplanes but you gain the advantages to be derived from the work of these lubrication specialists when you use

POLARINE -ISO-VIS

They are exceptional motor oils that hold up under the most trying conditions. They are both sturdy and rich. They maintain protecting cushions of oil on all bearing surfaces. They make the engine run smoothly and keep it from wearing out.

Polarine is effective and economical. The Standard Oil Company has kept it abreast of developments and recommends it to you to give maximum lubrication at minimum cost. Use Polarine and drain the crankcase every 500 miles.

Iso=Vis is the most advanced of motor oils because it will not thin out and because it wears and wears—frequent draining of crankcase is not necessary. Motorists drive 1,000 to 2,000 miles without changing Iso=Vis and every bearing is lubricated correctly on the way.

Use either Polarine or Iso=Vis. You'll save yourself worry and trouble. You'll save your money. You'll save your car. The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) recommends both Polarine and Iso=Vis. Buy the grade for your car.

Eddie Savoy Cannot Retire Yet

Eddie Savoy, the venerable dean of the messengers at the State department in Washington, who holds a continuous record of 58 years at the door of the office of the secretary of state, has received another stay of retirement at the request of Secretary Stimson. Eddie, who is seventy-four years of age, would have been retired at seventy, but at the intercession of the last three secretaries has been allowed to continue at his post. The photograph shows Eddie with Secretary of State Stimson in the latter's office.

MOTOR RUNS SIX DAYS WITHOUT STOPPING

An official test of the Model A Ford motor in Switzerland, with the Alps as a proving ground, has demonstrated that the new Ford could be operated for a long, continuous period over abrupt, steep hills, without lifting the hood. Reports of the test have just been received by the Ford Motor Company.

The Ford motor was kept running for a period of six days and during virtually all of that time the car was enroute over the Alpine passes, a relief taking over the operation while the driver rested. Day and night the test continued. No attempt was made for distance of speed, the sole object being to determine the reliability and power of the automobile.

The fact that the trip was made when the roads and climate conditions in the mountains were bad is cited as further evidence of the stability of the Ford car. A strictly standard Model A Ford with Tudor body was used. The car was the starting point. The hood of the car was sealed off, finally by a representative of the township. Two persons occupied the car, the driver and his relief.

Passing through Lucerne and the Grimsel Pass, the car took the Furka Pass at an altitude of 2,431 meters, then the St. Gothard Pass down the Italian lakes through all the large Swiss towns and back to Zurich. On its return the seals were examined by the official who first placed them on the hood and were found intact.

In each town the car was stopped, but not the motor. The motor ran constantly from the time the car was started in Zurich until the return six days later.

Cheer up if you are a little short of real money. It is reported that Henry Ford has $72,000,000 less in his cash account than a year ago.

SI MORE A WEEK KEPT JOB FOR NEW HUDSON PRESIDENT

William J. McAneny, the newly elected president and general manager of the Hudson Motor Company, began modestly in the automotive industry, like many another present industrial executive. When he was named out of service as private in the New York regiments serving in the Spanish-American War, he sought employment with the Riker Motor Vehicle Company at Elizabethtown, N. J.

After the interview with the prospective employer had reached the stage when the matter of salary came up, McAneny was asked how much he thought he ought to have. The job was that of purchasing agent and the salary after it was announced that he was to have $11 a week was perhaps a little low.

The Riker executive would make the salary $15, on the ground that if McAneny was not worth that, he was not worth anything. Mr. McAneny stayed with the Riker organization for about four years and then left to become purchasing agent of the Electric Vehicle Company, Hartford, Conn.

Later, in 1904, he began his experience with Hudson which culminated in his election as president and general manager.

Various Legends Tell of the Origin of Music

Music, most authorities agree, had a vocal origin. Some believe man attempted to imitate the sounds of birds, others say his melody developed from hunting calls or other vocal signals employed in primitive life. A Chinese legend goes so far as to declare that a miraculous bird provided the musical scale, while the Japanese say music was devised by the gods to lure the sun-goddess from a cave where she had retired. The Arabian legend has it that Modhar, a camel driver, fell from his seat and hurt his arm. In pain he called out "Ja, Jodah." His fine voice stirred up the camels so that they moved more quickly. So (who could not guess the result) from that time all camel-drivers sang.

It is interesting to note that the Greek word from which "music" is derived was used by that people to embrace all the arts over which the Nine Muses were held to preside. Hence, "Music" in those days included all those branches of education concerned with the development of the mind as opposed to the body. What moderns specifically call music, they referred to as "harmony."

Morning Glory Blossom Saved for Count's Eyes

A legend tells of the introduction of the morning glory into Japan, says the New York Times. A Japanese prince heard of a vine that blossomed only in the early morning, and notified the foreign nobleman who owned it he was coming to see it. When he arrived the vines no longer were trailing over the walls. The entire garden had been uprooted and there was no sign of the flower.

Being angered, he started to leave. Having been invited to tea, however, his sense of politeness compelled him to turn back. On entering the tea-room he saw a single morning glory blossom in a vase in a raised alcove. Inquiring of the nobleman why the garden had been ruined, the prince received the reply, "I ruined the garden in order that you might really see the blossom. If it were in plenty, you could not really have observed it so well as you did this single last flower saved for your eyes alone."

Coleridge's Expensive Innocence

Material things bothered Coleridge little more than they do most other poets and it is said that as a result of his aerial abstraction he came to attend Jesus college, Cambridge, as Innocence personified. One of his biographers relates how the young man was accosted by a polite interior decorator requesting to be permitted to fix up the new pupil's rooms. "How would you like them furnished?" the tradesman asked in his most solicitous manner. "Just as you please, sir," replied Coleridge, thinking the man was employed by the college. The decorator took the young man at his large word and did a thoroughly good job of it. Coleridge moved in and was well pleased with his quarters. A few days later he received a bill, the amount of it making him gasp, but seeing where the error was he did not complain.

Thought Stars New Each Day

Metaphors of Chios (not to be confused with the four other Grecian philosophers of the same name) was a complete skeptic. He accepted the Democritian theory of atoms and void and also believed in a plurality of worlds, but he had a very ingenious theory of his own by which he staunchly stood. He declared the stars were formed from day to day by the moisture in the air under the heat of the sun. His radical skepticism also is seen in one of his writings quoted by Cicero: "We know nothing, no, not even whether we know or not." His theory about the stars drew a lot of contemptuous criticism but he came back at his critics with, "Everything is to each person only what it appears to him to be."

Protestants' First Church

The first Protestant church west of the Alleghenies was built near the present town of New Philadelphia, Ohio, in 1772. A town was started there in that year by Rev. David Zeisberger, Moravian missionary, and his band of 28 Christian Indian followers. Soon a larger body of Christian Indians arrived and the place acquired a log schoolhouse (also the precursor in the Middle West), the above mentioned church, about 40 cabins and the community thrived. Much religious and educational work was carried on, but about five years later the town was destroyed by hostile Indians; its location was lost and not rediscovered until 1923.

WHAT ARE THE NEIGHBORS DOING?

"Hello, Bert. You look tired. Had a hard day?"
"Yes, Joe, pretty busy day. Not only that, but everyone dropped in to congratulate me on the new arrival. Keep me on the jump."

"That's right: I saw the piece about it in the paper. George Stone wrote quite an article about it, didn't he?"

"As soon as one of those 'Personal' gets in the paper, nearly everyone in the community knows about it. Fact is, they make interesting news stories and folks look for them. People want to know what their neighbors are doing and reading the paper is the only way to find out. The first thing I do when I get home Fridays is to read the paper through."

"Jim Preston, that drummer from the city, was in to see me today. He knows a lot of people here; he picked up the paper from my desk and enjoyed reading all the news bits about them. He told me, rather enviously, that he wished the metropolitan papers could do a stunt like that. They carry feature articles by their foreign correspondents, but not a word about a man's next-door-neighbor."

A lot of folks here take the city papers, but when they have read the Big League scores and the latest about Lindbergh and Mussolini, they're through. But you can bet they read the weekly thoroughly. Especially the women. They are the ones who are interested in local news, possibly more than we are."

"Yes, and that is why advertising in our paper pays. The women folks do the buying now-a-days, and they don't miss a thing—news or advertising. I buy space regularly."

THE PEDDLER

Every small city, and many of the big ones, are infested with a species of salesmen that prey off the public. From time to time there is a report that a salesman collects from his glib customer part of the total cost of the merchandise, the balance to be paid to the postman when the goods arrive—then when the goods fail to arrive many report the case to officials who do their best to apprehend the culprits at a big cost to the county and the state.

More often the victims swallow their pride and say nothing rather than face the ridicule of their friends. Thousands of dollars are mulcted yearly from the trusting public who momentarily forget that the smooth salesman does not pay a cent of taxes to their city, to their schools, to their improvements, or to anything that helps build a city.

There are salesmen who have an established place in the community. These men are good citizens and deal fairly. They are not to be classed with the fly-by-night gentry who are here today and gone with your money tomorrow.

The merchant who lives in, your town can and will do better by you than any of these slickers who skip from town to town, sometimes just one skip ahead of the sheriff. Your merchant, nine times out of ten, sells you a better grade of merchandise for the same amount of money and many a time waits on you thirty or sixty days for his money just to be accommodating.

Next time one of these salesmen approaches you just stop and think and ask him what he has ever done for this community and what amount of his profit will be left here. Compare him to the merchant who has helped to build your schools, your churches, your homes, your business and your improvements. Then and then only, comes the realization that "THE DOLLAR SPENT AT HOME OFTEN COMES BACK TO YOU."

Sickly Boy, 7, Gains 15 lbs. Father Happy

"My boy, 7, would not eat. I gave him Vinol and the way he eats and plays now makes me happy. He gained 15 pounds."—J. F. Andrea.

Vinol is a delicious compound of cod liver peptone, iron, etc. The very first bottle often adds several pounds weight to thin children or adults. Nervous, easily tired, anemic people are surprised how Vinol gives new pep, sound sleep and a BIG appetite. Tastes delicious. Mac & Gidley, Druggists.

Public Officials and Publicity

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

Even in my earliest youth when ambition burned most hotly within me I had no desire to become a public official of any sort. I was going to be quite contented to run a locomotive on the narrow gauge railroad which crossed the prairie a short distance from our place, or if fortune favored me in any extraordinary way possibly to be a conductor.

Charlie Hixon, our next-door neighbor's boy of my own age, once in a burst of confidence, told me that he expected to go to congress, but such distinction had no allurements for me. There was too much criticism of such an official, too much publicity, too much of getting one's name into the newspapers. A congressman could not turn around or neglect to do so without some mention being made of the fact, in a Washington press dispatch. A lot of fellows I knew wanted to be President of the United States, but not I.

Now just supposing you were king of England or President of the United States. At first thought it would seem like a lot of fun. There would be a big salary, and a fine house in which to live—several houses if you were king—and people to wait on you and to send you things and all that. It looks soft. The President gets countless things at Thanksgiving and Christmas—carloads of turkeys and fresh eggs and collie dogs, and goodness knows what sorts of things are sent to a king.

But a great public official has no privacy. He can't legitimately call his soul his own. Every move he makes is commented on. Whatever he eats or wears or dares to think about—much less to express an opinion upon—gets into the newspapers. It must be wretchedly tiresome.

Now about going to church. If you were king or President it would all ways be in the Saturday's paper where you intended to worship the next day, if you had any intention of worshiping, and why you didn't intend to do so, if you didn't. I have wondered often if Mr. Coolidge during the summer really wanted to go to church every Sunday and listen to blind men or Scandinavians preach, or if he wouldn't rather sometimes stay at home and lie around reading the Sunday papers, or playing with one of the dogs. But if he didn't go he would have to make up reasons to satisfy the inquisitive newspaper men and maybe it's easier to go and sit quietly through the service and then to smile and wave your hand at everyone when the service is ended than it would be to explain why you stayed at home.

Nancy and I didn't go to church last Sunday. We stayed at home and had a beautifully quiet time and read Jane Austen's "Northanger Abbey." And no one asked us why, and we didn't get our names in the paper, but you see we are not public officials.

POULTRY

RAISING POULTS DIFFICULT JOB

Sanitation Essential to Prevent Dread Blackhead.

That the new methods of raising turkeys are about to revolutionize the industry is indicated by the success of the new turkey raisers who have experienced in many parts of the country during the last season.

Word has gradually spread around during the last two or three years that the dreaded disease of blackhead could best be controlled by raising the poults under conditions where the sanitation can be carefully controlled. This has given rise to experiments with incubator hatching and artificial brooding and to keeping the growing poults on restricted range, says a writer in the Oklahoma Farmer-Stockman.

As the result of considerable experimenting, the new method has gradually taken the form of a rather definite program. Hatch the eggs in incubators; brood under artificial hovers; range on fresh, clean ground, and feed an all-mash starting and growing feed. This is a summary of the modern method now being tried, with considerable success in many different places.

The writer has had the pleasure of being enabled to visit three turkey raisers in three different states who have been remarkably successful in raising turkeys by the method outlined above. These places were located in three different states—Michigan, Kentucky and Kansas, yet the methods followed were surprisingly similar and the results were uniformly satisfactory. The Michigan man has been using the same methods for two or three years and is specializing in turkey farming. He has a fine flock of more than 1,000 birds, and claims that his losses have been very low.

The Kentucky grower lives in the famous blue grass region not far from Lexington, and is a general farmer. He raises tobacco and other field crops, and in addition to the turkeys has a flock of more than 500 White Leghorn hens. It is worthy of note, however, that the turkeys and chickens are kept entirely separate.

There was nothing at all elaborate about his equipment as he used cheap portable brooder houses with small coal-burning brooders, and had home-made troughs for feed. He has about 250 turkeys left out of about 340 hatched. He claims that the losses were heavier than normal because the poults were chilled when he had some trouble with his brooder stoves.

The Kansas flock was found at the Kansas experiment station at Manhattan. This was an experimental flock, and the birds had been kept in close confinement without outdoor range, until they were sixteen weeks old. At that age they were transferred to a two or three-acre alfalfa field, and at the time of my visit, after four weeks on range, they were as fine and sturdy birds as could be wished for.

During their period of confinement, these poults were fed plenty of lawn clippings for green feed, but otherwise they had the same rations as growing chicks. This flock contained approximately 100 birds out of 185 that were started.

Sufficient Range for Success With Turkeys

A range of one acre of sod is considered sufficient for 100 turkeys from the age of eight weeks to marketable age. This area should also be divided into four sections and then each section used for only one month. The secret of successful turkey raising rests largely in providing fresh ground and the hopper feeding of all feed. In the selection of range it should be one which has not been frequented by chickens and should not be situated where drainage from the poultry yards may result in infestation. It is, of course, desirable to have all the turkeys of the same age. There is no question but that turkeys can be successfully raised in confinement and that it does not pay to allow turkeys to range for their feed.

Separate Turkeys

Keep turkeys entirely away from chickens because the excrement from chickens may contain the worms which are believed to harbor the germ that causes blackhead, the most deadly enemy of the turkey family. There is always more or less trouble from lice and mites with hen-brooded poults. The best stock you can buy will pay the largest profits. Experiments over a long range have shown there is no money in scrub turkeys.

Material for Eggs

Feeding affects the texture of the egg shells. It is usually necessary to supply layers with materials from which they may make the shell for the eggs. Crushed oyster shell is kept in hoppers so the birds may eat it at will, as it contains a large percentage of lime. Grit also is kept in hoppers, as it helps in grinding up the feed in the gizzard. Some kinds of grit also contain a certain amount of lime that helps the birds in the manufacture of egg shells.

The German government now has the allies scaled down to one-fifth of their original demand for reparations and is negotiating to reduce the amount still further. It's our opinion that it will be later discovered that the Germans have a Scotchman disguised with a turned-up moustache conducting the negotiations for them.

"Bring me the winner!"

THE story is told of a man dining in a restaurant, who was served a lobster with only one claw. Upon complaining he was told by the waiter that this happened occasionally because the live lobsters fought among themselves in the kitchen. "Bring me the winner!" said the diner.

At the General Motors Proving Ground, a fleet of specimen cars, built long in advance of factory production, fight a battle of hills, bumps, and every other sort of torture. These cars are torn down and rebuilt until they are able to beat every test. The tests involve speed, power, endurance, braking, riding comfort, handling ease; fuel, oil, and tire economy; body strength—every phase of car construction and performance.

Only the winner of all these tests is sent back to the factory to be used as a model for the construction of the car you buy. No matter what driving condition you face, your General Motors car is equal to it. You have the winner.

First Airplane Hobo

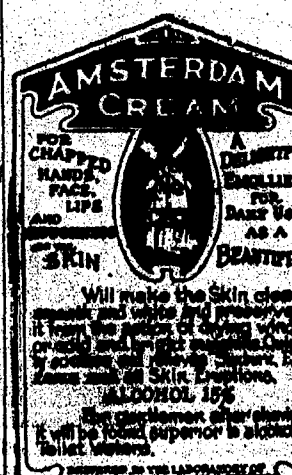

The first airplane hobo—Carl Ellis of Oklahoma—photographed at El Paso, Texas, after he tumbled out of a baggage compartment of a T. A. T. plane, piloted by M. C. Bove from Big Spring. STILL PAYING DIVIDENDS

Play safe and slow down. Carelessness is a "grave" fault. Don't think a train has passed just because you see its tracks. No safety device has yet been invented to take the place of the one just above the ears. There is no romance in courting disaster. The place for the knocker is "outside the door." Nature made the only moonshine fit to use. The rest of your days depend upon the rest of your nights. Be it ever so beautiful, there's no place worse than an ambulance. Stick to your safeguards and you'll stick around. Playing safe beats playing a hump. People who knock—like motors—need adjusting. Many accidents are caused by sending the body out to work a mad mind out to play. The engine may "die" many times; the driver dies but once. The locomotive has the right of way and can generally prove it. Play safe by taking your part in the safety campaign. Nothing pays such royal dividends. One of the popular songs of the day is entitled "I'll Get By" and the trouble is that too many people these days are satisfied with just that.

Grayling High School boasts of a winning baseball team, so let's go out Friday afternoon and see them in action against St. Joe's team of West Branch. The locals are showing lots of pep and are sure to give baseball enthusiasts some thrills in this favorite sport. They hope to win most of their games and gain for themselves a record such as the Tigers are gaining.

Frank Beckman, a barber operating a shop on the South Side, has been missing since Tuesday. He left the shop that morning saying that he was going out to shave a sick man. Failing to return his absence was investigated but he was nowhere to be found. Rumors that he was seen in Roscommon have later been denied. It is said that he had been complaining of late about his head and it is the opinion of some that he may have wandered off and become lost. His whereabouts are still unknown and apparently there is no clue by which he may be traced. He took a number of his barber tools with him.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Colladay at Michelson Memorial church last Thursday afternoon was attended by many old friends of the family. Members of Grayling Chapter O. E. The ladies will appreciate it if any one wishes to donate anything, and someone will call for it, call Mrs. Rudolph Feldhauser. Don't forget the date and come early.

Bushes and bushels of arbutus are being gathered every week in this region. While the people are enjoying this delightful, fragrant blossom let's not forget that while we have an abundance here now that soon it will be only a memory unless more care is given to the gathering of it. Arbutus grows and spreads much like the strawberry vine. Shoots out from the parent plant and takes root; from that the process is repeated. Many pickers pull up whole vines, roots and all. That's where they are wrong. Pick the stems instead of pulling them up and there will be arbutus here just as long as there are wildwoods and places where it flourishes. Let's heed this warning before it is too late. Parents should instruct their children about this matter. Everybody do their part and there will be arbutus for our children's grandchildren.

See the wonderful values in women's $1.00 hose at Olson's.

A number of Grayling young people are planning on attending the Junior prom at West Branch Friday evening.

The interior of the Grayling Mercantile Co., store has been nicely repainted, improving its appearance very much.

Miss Ingeborg Hanson has resigned her position as bookkeeper at the Sorenson Bros. furniture store and joined the office force at the Grayling Box Company as stenographer. She began her duties Wednesday.

Rev. J. W. Greenwood, Luther Herrick, Howard Granger and A. M. Peterson left Sunday afternoon for Durham, Ontario. The former went to visit his father, while the others will visit Alfred Bebb and family. All expect to return home the last of the week.

At the meeting of the Ladies' Aid society of Michelson Memorial church last Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. G. Clippert the annual election of officers took place. Following are those who will fill the various offices for the ensuing year: Mrs. Harold Jarmin, president; Mrs. Holger C. Schmidt, first vice president; Mrs. Sigwald Hanson, second vice president; Mrs. E. J. Olson, secretary; Mrs. Ernest Larsen, treasurer.

Herman E. Schreiber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Schreiber Sr. and who is a professor in one of the colleges in Massachusetts, has contributed two articles on the subject of "Accounts of an Investment Trust." These are published in the March and April numbers of the Journal of Accountancy, published in Concord, N. H. and with offices in New York City. They offer a system of accounting for investment trusts and are considered the most complete in detail that have ever been published. Since their publication Mr. Schreiber has established an enviable reputation and is receiving much flattering commendation. They have brought him into the limelight of large financing institutions that is bound to accrue to his financial benefit. We are glad to extend our congratulations to this Grayling young man.

early history of the region by the lumbermen who located along the AuSable river. This highway also contains three miles of memorial trees planted by individuals interested in this project. It is our plan to eventually have this highway lined on both sides with memorial trees and when these trees obtain sufficient size will be furnished with markers bearing the planter's name and date.

The lumberjack memorial which we have in mind is to be constructed at the end of this memorial highway where it joins the Oscoda Township highway at a point 200 feet above the AuSable river where a beautiful view is obtained of the river both to the east and to the west. It is a point where every tourist stops and admires and looks with awe upon the AuSable river probably for the first time. Everyone knows the interest connected with the AuSable river in 1929 which will bring the total and there is no doubt whatever but what it stands foremost as a stream in Michigan upon which has floated more logs than any other stream in the State.

The location of this memorial in the center of the Huron National Forest has appealed to almost everyone knowing anything about the Forest. We have at this time 26,000 acres of Norway pine planted around this proposed location. It is the largest area of planted trees in the United States. This planted area has already become a mecca for visitors from every state in the union. As these trees grow in size and become more prominent it is going to mean that the Huron National Forest in this part of the State is going to be the garden spot of northeastern Michigan, in fact, of the entire State. I am saying this with all frankness for being connected with the work here I can look ahead and see what is going to happen. It highway at a point 200 feet above the AuSable river where a beautiful view is obtained of the river both to the east and to the west. It is a point where every tourist stops and admires and looks with awe upon the AuSable river probably for the first time. What the New Pest Does to Oranges proposed site of the memorial. It is already of national interest that the Kiwanians of the State of Michigan have supplied funds for the planting of 5,000 acres during 1929. This same organization will furnish an additional fund for the planting of another 5,000 acres for 1930. It is the largest piece of cooperation of its kind ever received by the Forest Service. This Kiwanis Forest in itself is going to mean that this forest will be visited by hundreds of Kiwanians, their families and friends every year in the future and as their forest grows in size and beauty it will be a drawing card that will attract Kiwanians and visitors from all over the union.

We have three public camp grounds within a radius of eight miles from the proposed location of this memorial. These camp grounds are visited by a great number of people each year. At the present time a large part of the traveling public are leaving U.S.-23 at East Tawas and taking the gravelled drive through the forest coming out at Oscoda. It gives them an opportunity of driving through our plantations, getting the view at the AuSable river, which is the location of the memorial, and getting out to the east at Oscoda. Frankly, this drive going by this proposed location is traveled just as extensively during the summer season as is U.S.-23 running from Bay City to the Straits of Mackinac.

I have no doubt whatever but what the number of visitors visiting our forest annually from now on will reach the 100,000 figure and even surpass this within a very short time. Good highways lead everywhere. The forest is nationally known and being talked about and advertised by everyone. The Federal government is doing everything in their power to make it one of the outstanding units in the United States. It will always be the largest national forest in the State of Michigan.

Herman Lunden visited our forest just a short time before his death and in discussing the proposed location for the lumberjack memorial, stated that it was ideal and that he could not think of another spot in Michigan more adapted for this memorial.

If the above does not contain sufficient information for you kindly inform me and I will see what I can do to get you further figures.

Very sincerely yours,
R. G. Schreck,
Forest Supervisor.

WORK IS ART

A great deal of the joy of life consists in doing perfectly, or at least to the best of one's ability, everything which one attempts to do. There is a sense of satisfaction, a pride in surveying such a work, a work which is rounded, full, exact, complete in all its parts—which the superficial man, who leaves his work in a slovenly, slipshod, half-finished condition, can never know. It is this conscientious completeness which turns work into art. The smallest thing well done, becomes artistic.—William Matthews.

EVERYBODY CAN HELP

The Sebewaing Blade, which seems to have its finger on the pulse of the tourist and resort industry recently printed the following editorial:

"Never lose an opportunity to boost Michigan as a great summer resort state to your out-of-state friends. The more summer tourists who visit the state the more it means to nearly every person living in the state.

"The tourist cannot help leaving a trail of currency in his wake. When he receives full value he gladly leaves it in the stores, at garages, at resorts, at farms. In time through the natural course of business this money is circulated to every line of endeavor.

"Tourist trade means summer prosperity. Let's have more of both in Michigan."

Whiteley, "is the number of complaints which are reaching the department concerning the damage done by deer, bear, beaver, pheasants, and even geese. While there is an unpleasant taste to these complaints there is nevertheless in them the highest possible testimony as to the efficiency of the policies which are leading to increasing wild life.

"The goal is the preservation and increase in these species for the hunters and for the lover of nature. That this increase is taking effect is unquestionable. It is proven despite the complaint of some that they do not get their licenses filled every season. The land owner whose property has to carry the feeding burden, for game has to feed the same as domesticated animals and fowls, knows whether or not his crops are injured.

"In Montmorency county a local newspaper recently carried a story of 200 deer grazing in a farmer's clover field. An officer of the conservation department made a report that in his winter cruising he discovered a swamp in a county below the Straits which contained a winter population of between 500 and 1,000 deer. Recent local stories of the thousands of geese at Lidy Lake, for instance, in Joseph County; many reports of damage from bear; repeated evidence of beaver work on the upper peninsula streams; items of complaint from lower Michigan farmers concerning the pheasant; all these definitely prove that the conservation department is accomplishing a result which has been hoped for.

"Now will come the added problem of coping with the new situation. It is probable that some cooperation with persons who are subject to damage may have to be arrived at, where the damage is really substantial. Increasing game will unquestionably mean greater liberality in seasons and bags which is the ultra desirability. Education of the property owners to what they can expect in the way of returns under the Horton act by protecting and feeding game birds in the southern area is bound to be a vital question.

"But the happy thing is that there is actual complaint over increasing wild life; the problem of taking care of it can be much more easily handled than the problem of increasing it."

COMMISSIONER WOOD'S REPORT

Delving deep into "Cause and Prevention of Crime," Arthur D. Wood, commissioner of pardons and paroles, makes some startling and striking suggestions in connection with his biennial report recently sent to Governor Fred W. Green.

After more than two years spent in dealing directly and intimately with the criminal classes he is convinced that Michigan still has a long hard road to travel before success of any appreciable measure is reached in bringing about the reformation of those already convicted of crime, or in preventative methods to discourage others from taking up crime as a means of livelihood.

Commissioner Wood is convinced that many mistakes are being made in our present treatment of the criminal classes, that we are not giving them the individual attention these outlaws of society should have in bringing them back to good citizenship, and that many opportunities for correcting these ills are being overlooked.

In his report Commissioner Wood declares he would welcome a crime commission, composed of men especially trained to study the case of every person imprisoned that would form the basis for the release or detention for the particular individual.

He would have all offenders sentenced to Jackson prison for the first 30 days of their incarceration where they could be placed under scientific observation. Following this period they would be sent to the penal institution holding out the most hope of salvage.

In commenting on the different penal institutions Commissioner Wood recommends Marquette prison be reserved entirely for hardened criminals, Jackson for the less violent type, and Ionia for youthful offenders as well as aged first termers. He scores the present overcrowded condition of our prisons, their lack of equipment for teaching trades and promoting educational facilities. He condemns the dormitory system at Ionia and says it should be immediately abolished and cell blocks substituted.

A thousand sermons could be written from the report of the commissioner, who after two years of intense study is still at a loss as to how our crime situation can best be handled, but who is convinced that in spite of our mistakes we will eventually find a way for salvaging more of this human driftwood.

MICHIGAN LEGISLATIVE NEWS LETTER

population and wealth and is also growing in disposition to provide more and better means of education, transportation, etc., for its people. State taxes naturally raise in total amount with the growth of wealth and population and it is foolish to expect that the total state tax which is after all but a small percentage of the total taxes we pay, will ever shrink to any appreciable extent.

A fine tribute was paid in the House Wednesday to George Watson of Capac, who has been chairman of the judiciary committee of the House for a number of sessions. He is an exceptionally competent man for that important place and the House adopted by rising vote a resolution of commendation and approval.

The related land problem, which has had a great deal of attention from both houses during the session, is still unsettled, but was passed by the House Friday afternoon on general orders and will probably survive on third reading, although some of its provisions are still unsatisfactory to many of the legislators. The bill has been almost entirely re-written in an effort to protect owners of lake frontage and still not fence off the beaches along the great lakes from the rank and file of occasional visitors.

A bill providing a 30-day penalty for throwing garbage or rubbish in any highway has passed the Senate and will undoubtedly go through the House without any trouble.

The new election code, the principal feature of which is a provision for permanent registration in cities of 5000 or over, has passed the House with some slight amendments in which the Senate is asked to concur. It sets up machinery whereby the registration lists will be kept very much "alive" and will automatically remove from the list any voter who for two years neglects to exercise the right of franchise. He is, however, to receive notification and may upon application be restored to good standing.

The Snow income tax bill, which passed the House early in the session, was definitely slaughtered in the Senate this week by the senate taxation committee along with the bill for a tax on malt and malt extracts. This may be a great relief to some of our many readers throughout the state, who claim it is trouble enough to make the stuff, without having to pay a tax on the ingredients.

The McBride bill, setting up a bean commission to regulate the sale and those in any state we had ever been grading of beans has passed the House, despite the protests of several members who thought the matter could as well have been handled by the department of agriculture rather than set up the machinery and expense of a new board. The bill has gone to the upper house.

The Palmer narcotics bill and the osteopath bill have been reported out by the committee on public health in the House, after being held-up for a long time, but the medical bill was strangled in committee.

The Hartman mill tax bill is still a bone of contention in the Senate, having passed the House by a good majority. Unless the Senate takes action on the bill, the proposed rehabilitation program for state institutions will go by the board, which would undoubtedly mean that the legislature would be called back in a special session.

The mortgage bill which cuts down the redemption period to three months following sale of the property has passed the House and is now in the hands of the Senate. Another bill, which went through the House is prohibiting the cropping or trimming of dogs ears. This bill aroused a great amount of discussion in which Rep. Chas. H. Reed has a major part. In fact he talked so long that his seat mate, Rep. Alex. Cuthbertson fell asleep and toppled from his chair, amid tremendous excitement. Many outside the building thought there had been an earthquake, but the author of the famous liquor bill sustained no serious injury.

Wednesday next at 4 o'clock has been definitely set as the time for adjournment and there is apparently nothing to prevent the great event being pulled off according to program. Legislators are having their boxes packed with all their legislative belongings and are happy in anticipation of the end of the long grind. Much remains to be done, but all House bills have now gone to the Senate and bills from the upper house are now all that is on the calendar of the solons of the lower house, and vice versa, so it seems that without a superabundance of oratory everything important should be wiped off the slate before the final hour arrives.
